I'm getting quotes for a single Powerwall 3 with 8k of panels around $27k before incentives for a turnkey install compared to around $15k for the EG4 system. Anybody else considering a Powerwall 3? I was hoping to get the panels professionally installed and then do the EG4 setup DIY but I'm not having any luck finding an installer willing to ...

Looks like this is a major difference between the sol-ark 15k vs eg4 18kpv.. The Sol-Ark supplements any power in excess of max AC current (i.e. 50A) with grid power, whereas the EG4 does not supplement, but instead fully transfers to grid power. Since i only plan to use one inverter with 2x 3.0 ton AC's & washer/dryer and can occasionally exceed max AC current ...

I'm planning to use two EG4 18KPV hybrid inverters. Each inverter would connect directly to each service panel. One inverter per service panel, meaning one EG4 18KPV for each 200-amp service panel. I would remove the existing 2 AWG service wires from the meter combo box and upgrade to 4/0 service wires for each panel. Questions and Concerns:

I made an order early last month (September). From signature solar. I ordered a 18k PV eg4, 30 solar panels and 2 powerwall batteries eg4 also. Was told I would get mid sept. (Estimate to be fair). Then I was told there was a delay, and they were waiting for some UL certifications for the batteries. Now the same story.

I'm not going to get into all the arguments presented here but will just state some facts from my own experiences. My EG4-LL battery rack (30.7 kw) cost me $10,500. That is about half the per kw cost of a tesla
